Summary:

On July 14, 1969, a partially decomposed adult Caucasian male was found on Thornton Beach in Daly City by a witness. The decedent was not visually identifiable due to decomposition and his cause of death was ruled to be drowning with an undetermined manner of death. Clothing from the decedent, including one pair of black socks and one pair of blue socks and dark blue swimsuit pieces, was examined by the Federal Bureau of Investigations. Fingerprints were unable to be obtained by the Department of Justice.
